It is a coconut tree, who I call as Leeko. The word Leeko has a dual influence in its meaning. At time it means extremely happy, full of fun and good-natured, yet at other times, it also have the power to express as being controlled by self-pity, moods and depression. I symbolically used her name to express my life, where one can find happiness as well as difficulties.

TECHNICAL SESSION

The plenary session of the seminar was the invited talk of Mr. V. R. Jayaprasad on the topic, “Water for Sustainable Development”. He pointed out the facts and figures about the reality of the water crisis and how it affects every aspects of society. Today we are left with a crisis where 2.1 billion people are living without a safe water supply close to their homes, spending countless hours queuing or trekking to distant sources and coping with the health impacts of using contaminated water. He motivated the students to take their own steps to conserve water, be inspired to tell others and take action to make a difference. The programme came to end with National Anthem.
